Women too Ambitious. Excessive ambition leads all sorts of women to exert themselves beyond their strength. The girl striving for honors in school, the busy housewife, the shop-girl, the society climber or leader, all overtax their natural powers of endurance. Then come nervous troubles, backaches, headaches, frequently organic troubles, which reduce them almost to despair.

Women suffering thus should first recognize the necessity of putting on the brakes and slowing down. Besides this, to remedy the mischief already done to their health, the best recourse is upon that famous and standard medicine for women's ailments, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Adv.

GIRLS! HAVE A MASS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR, SOFT, GLOSSY, WAVY

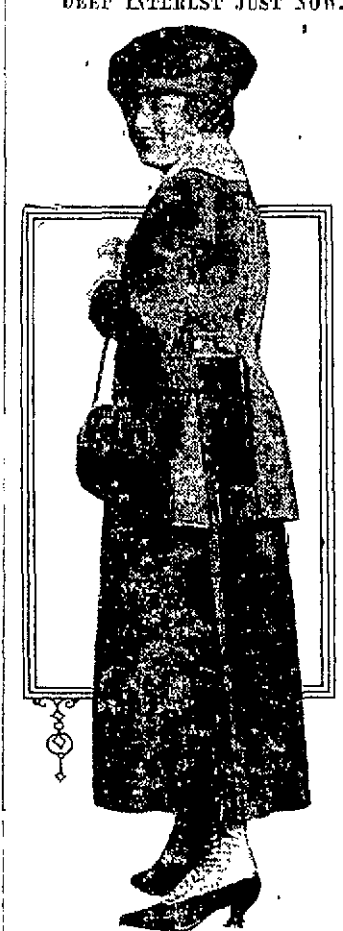

25-cent bottle destroys dandruff and doubles beauty of your hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderline you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderline immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderline and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderline from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that all you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderline—Adv.

Health of the Throat and Lungs

With "that cough" and the cold "that hangs on," it should be remembered that in all diseases of the respiratory organs, experience has shown that stimulants and sustaining remedies invariably give the best results. In such cases

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

should be used on account of its absolute purity, and every household ought to have a bottle for just such emergencies. Coughs and colds persist because the resistance is below par, and Duffy's, taken in tablespoonful doses, improves the digestion and assimilation of food, which in diseases of the respiratory tract are always impaired, and succeeds in giving a resisting tone and vigor to the body. It is truly a remedial agent for the mucous membranes, which accounts for its remarkable efficacy in relieving coughs, colds and grip. People who have overcome these complaints by the judicious use of Duffy's know that the intelligent treatment of colds, begins by prevention and are particular to

"INTOLERANCE" FINE

Local People Enjoy Big Film Spectacle at Uniontown.

A number of Connelville people saw "Intolerance," the big Griffith spectacle, at the West End Theatre in Uniontown last night. All were highly pleased. From a scenic standpoint the picture stands unsurpassed. The immensity of the palace of Babel and the city of Babylon was amazing, close attention to detail was apparent, and the photography was wonderful. A musical score interpreted by an orchestra of 20 added much to the enjoyment of the spectacle. More local people will attend tonight and tomorrow night, the engagement being for three days. It has been announced that the picture will not show here.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 20.—Owing to the high cost of living, local bakers have given sanitation the go-by and done away with the waxed paper used to wrap the loaves in. This was done to keep the bread perfectly sanitary and moist after leaving the oven.
Bread with waxed paper on was rarely ever wrapped a second time by the grocer, but now he is compelled to stand this expense.

Mount Pleasant Wins.
Mount Pleasant defeated Wilmerding last night by a score of 48 to 38 at the state armory and now has

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

It Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens
so Naturally Nobody can Tell

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur.
Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 60 cents.
This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied.
It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

COULDN'T FOOL HIM TWICE

Experience Proved That There Was Nothing "Just as Good" as Father John's Medicine for Colds and Throat Troubles and As a Body Builder

The victim of an unscrupulous druggist in a Pennsylvania town says that when he asked for Father John's Medicine the druggist persuaded him to take something else which was "just as good," according to the clerk.
"I might as well have taken so much water," this victim continues. "Afterward went back and got Father John's Medicine and in a short time I felt the good effects. It increased my weight, gave me strength and helped my bronchial trouble."

In some localities this practice of substitution by druggists is an evil practice of vast proportions. The unscrupulous druggist who forces upon you a different preparation when you call for Father John's Medicine is doing you an injury.

Remember that Father John's Medicine is a doctor's prescription, pure and wholesome, free from opium, morphine, chloroform or any other dangerous drug or alcohol and with a history of more than 60 years' success in the treatment of colds, throat troubles and as a tonic and body builder.

Begin taking it today. It will make you strong.

Hope Almost Abandoned When She Found Remedy

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Relieves Chronic Case of Long Standing.

After a long period of suffering with liver and bowel trouble that brought on piles, during which she had tried many remedies without obtaining relief, Mrs. Mary J. Jewell, of Dorrien Springs, Mich., heard of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and obtained a bottle from her druggist. This simple, inexpensive laxative compound brought almost immediate relief and Mrs. Jewell wrote to Dr. Caldwell about her case.

In her letter Mrs. Jewell says, "I had tried so many things for the piles without getting help at all. I had about given up hope of ever being any better. I knew it was the condition of my bowels that caused them, and after I had taken a bottle of your Syrup Pepsin I knew it was just the medicine I needed. I am very grateful to you for sending me the little book—the advice and instructions it gives would teach anyone how to get well and how to keep well."

FURTHER LOSS IS SUSTAINED BY THE NORTH END PLANTS

Resulting From the Heavy Embargo Laid By Winter.

SHIPMENTS 23,000 TONS

A New Low Record, Which Has Not Been Reached Since the Lean Months of 1914; Loss During Past Two Weeks 9,100 Tons; Recovery Slow.

Taking the losses of last and the preceding week into the calculation, the embargo on the Upper Connellville and the Greensburg-Connelville districts totaled a little more than 9,100 tons. Of this loss some what less than one-third was suffered last week, indicating that the districts are recovering with their usual resilience from the blow, but they still have a period of convalescence before them, before regaining their former strength and vigor.

Monday and Tuesday of last week recorded the worst showing of the six operating days both in the matter of production and shipments. On Monday a number of plants were unable to get their coke drawers out on account of the severity of the weather.

A few succeeded in having a part of their ovens drawn, but to all practical purposes the day was lost to the districts so far as coke production was concerned. On Tuesday the same trouble was experienced but to a lesser degree. Later in the week better time was made, but on the whole the week was much below normal.

The shipments reached a new low point in consequence of weather and traffic conditions which, it may be noted, were even worse than labor conditions. With a total of 23,000 tons for both districts we have to go back into the lean months of 1914 to find a similar record. Illustrating rather forcibly how serious were the effects of present car supply and service, when made augmented by severe winter weather.

For the week ending Saturday, February 10th, shipments from the two districts were as follows:

District	East	West	Total
Upper Conn.	5,618	5,880	11,498
Greensburg	5,113	5,710	10,823
Totals	10,731	11,590	22,321

The net loss in shipments for the two districts was 2,068 tons. To Western points there was a gain of 163 tons over the previous week, but to Eastern destinations there was a shrinkage of 2,551 tons. Both districts shared in the loss in the proportions of 865 tons in the Upper Connellville and 1,203 tons in the Greensburg district.

The following tabulation shows the output of these districts by weeks in net tons for 1917 to date:

Week	East	West	Total
Jan. 6	12,831	14,411	27,242
Jan. 13	11,688	13,172	24,860
Jan. 20	12,478	13,855	26,333
Jan. 27	13,097	14,779	27,876
Feb. 3	12,071	13,021	25,092
Feb. 10	11,296	12,225	23,521

The output of the two districts was consigned by weeks during 1917 to date as follows:

Week	East	West	Total
Jan. 6	15,758	15,617	31,375
Jan. 13	14,172	14,812	28,984
Jan. 20	15,618	16,554	32,172
Jan. 27	16,381	16,882	33,263
Feb. 3	15,355	15,837	31,192
Feb. 10	10,731	11,590	22,321

COULD MAKE THIRD MORE MUNITIONS THAN ALL GERMANY

The Enormous Capacity of the United States Steel Corporation.

PRACTICALLY NO LIMIT

To the Variety of Quantity of War Supplies that Could be Made: Anything—Can be Done in Case of Need?—Is War Chairman Gary Expresses It

Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, has made a statement showing the possible output of his company in supplies which would be required by the government in case of war. The annual capacity of the steel corporation alone in such supplies has estimated roughly as being more than one-third greater in quantity than that of all Germany's in the same lines. As to whether this tremendous capacity of the corporation could be made available for the government's use, Mr. Gary said "anything can be done in case of need."

Mr. Gary added that a large part of the corporation's product, as shown in his statement, was already being used by the government. While neither the United States Steel Corporation, he said, nor any of its subsidiaries manufacture arms, ammunition, submarines or other finished instruments of war, they do manufacture the materials and parts that are used in their construction. Among these, he stated, are armor plate, navy and army shell forgings and parts of marine torpedoes and special steel for rifle barrels, gun carriages, etc. The monthly capacity of the corporation in the last named materials, he said, is "practically unlimited."

Other materials used for war purposes and made in vast quantities by the subsidiary corporations are barbed wire and wire products, all kinds and character of ship plates and structural materials entering into the construction of ships, spelter for the manufacture of brass cartridges and cartridge casings, benzol, tuluol and sulphuric acid, used in the manufacture of powder and high explosives. The monthly capacity of armor plate, is 1,250 tons; of shell forgings 25,000 tons; wire products 45,000 tons; plates and structural materials for ship 200,000 tons, and spelter 7,000 tons. The output of benzol, at the by-product recovery plants of the subsidiary companies is 300,000 gallons monthly; tuluol 124,000 gallons, and sulphuric acid 12,000 tons. The total monthly capacity of all the United States Steel Corporation's plants in pig iron is 1,450,000 tons; steel 1,285,000 tons.

Smithfield.

SMITHFIELD, Feb. 20.—The community meeting or teachers' institute of the Smithfield public schools held here Saturday was one of the best of its kind held in this end of the county for many a day. A rather lengthy but well arranged program, under the direction of Lloyd S. Stresander, principal of the borough schools, was carried out. The instructors from this county were: County Superintendent, J. S. Carroll; Albert Montgomery, supervising principal of the German township schools; A. W. Wright, assistant principal of Uniontown schools; W. H. Martin, supervising principal of Perry township; J. T. King, supervising principal of Menallen township; J. W. Williams, principal of Mount Sterling school; J. Earl Roberts, principal of Point Marion schools; R. K. Smith, supervising principal of Dunbar township;

L. L. Moser, supervising principal of Georges township. From a distance S. H. Williams, department of science of the Brad-dock high school, gave an interesting lecture at the evening session on the relation of science to the life of the community. The intervals between the addresses was profitably filled in with solos and recitations by local talent. A pleasing feature of the meetings was the music which was led by the Smithfield high school chorus. Mrs. W. M. V. Mayfield is confined to her home on Water street by sickness. Don Campbell of Point Marion spent over Saturday night and Sunday with relatives in the borough. Rev. Ralph Bell attended a meeting of the Fayette County Sunday School association held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church at Uniontown Monday. Silas J. Fast was in the borough Monday on business.

The judge considered a moment before replying. "I can't go, for I'm busy in court. You could probably accomplish more than anybody else, if you could get a person of such importance that I dare say you'd be safe."

"Well, people here are asking whether or not you are in the United States or Mexico," Alaire said, lightly. "Sometimes I hardly know. After a moment she continued: "Since you know everything and everybody, I wonder if you ever met a David Lutz?"

"Tell me something about him," Alaire asked the same thing about you. "Well, I haven't seen much of David since he grew up, he's such a runner."

"He said his parents were murdered by the Guadalupe."

"Yes, it happened a good many years ago and certainly they both met a violent end. I was instrumental in saving what property I could, I left but it didn't take Dave very long. He's right careful in money matters. Dave's a fine fellow in some ways—most ways, I believe, but—The Judge lost him self in from my narration."

"I have never known you to damn a friend or a client with such faint praise," said Alaire.

"Oh, I don't mean it that way. I'm almost like one of Dave's kids and I've been keenly interested in watching his traits develop. I'm interested in his revolt. I've watched it in his case for instance. If you know the parents it's easy to read their children." Again he lapsed into silence, nodding to himself.

"Yes, nature makes her perceptions like any druggist. I'm glad you and I—have no babies."

Alaire murmured something unintelligible.

CHAPTER V.

A Journey, and a Dark Man.

Alaire's preparations for the journey to La Feria were made with little delay. Owing to the condition of affairs across the border, Alaire had thought it well to provide her with letters from the most influential Mexicans in the neighborhood; what is more in order to pay her toward a settlement of her claim he succeeded in getting a telegram through to Mexico City. Alaire's influence was not bounded by the Rio Grande.

Alaire took Dolores with her and for male escort she selected after some deliberation Jose Sanchez, her house-breaker. Sanchez could not well be spared. Sanchez had some force and initiative at least and Alaire had no reason to doubt his loyalty. The party was to leave by motor. On the following day, Alaire secured her papers from the federal headquarters across the Rio Grande, while Jose attended to the railroad tickets. On the second morning after leaving home the party was borne southward into Mexico.

The revolution had ravaged most of northern Mexico; long rows of rusting trucks and twisted car skeletons beside the track showed how the railway's rolling stock had suffered in this particular vicinity; and as the train penetrated farther south temporary troubles and the charred ruins of station houses spoke even more eloquently of the struggle. Now and then a steel water tank, pierced with loopholes and ripped by cannon balls, showed where some detachment had made a stand. There was a military guard on the train too—a downy-skinned soldier mounted with rifle and bandolier on his thighs, and several officers, mostly dressed in khaki, who rode in the first-class coach and occupied themselves by making eyes at the women.

At its frequent stops the train was besieged by the customary crowd of curious persons; the same noisy hucksters dealt out enchiladas tortillas great cheeses and coffee from the same silver baskets and gaudy, even their stretched hands seemed to bear the familiar grime of anti-bellum days. The coaches were crowded; women fanned themselves unceasingly; their men yawned, open-mouthed, over the backs of the seats, and the aisles were full of squabbling, quarrelling children.

As for the country itself, it was dying. The ranches were stripped of stock, no carts cranked along the highways, and the roads, like the little farms were growing up to weeds. Store were empty, the people were idle. Over all was an atmosphere of Jerry, and what was far more significant, the people seemed content.

All morning the monotonous journey continued—a trial to Alaire and Dolores but to Jose Sanchez a red-letter experience. He covered the train from end to end making himself acquainted with everyone and bringing to Alaire the gossip that he picked up.

It was not until midday that the first interruption occurred; then the train pulled in upon a siding, and after an interminable delay it transpired that a northbound troop-train was expected.

Jose brought this intelligence: "Soon you will behold the flower of the Mexican army," he told Alaire. "You will see thousands of Longorio's veterans, every man of them a very devil for blood. They are returning to Nuevo Pueblo after destroying a band of those rebels. They had a great victory at San Pedro—thirty kilometers from La Feria. Not a prisoner was spared, senora."

"Is General Longorio with them?" Alaire inquired quickly.

"That is what I came to tell you. It is believed that he is, for he takes his arms with him wherever he goes. He is a great fighter, he has a nose for it, that man, and he strikes like the lightning—here there, anywhere."

Jose, it seemed, was a wild fustianist. When the train arrived she told her house-breaker, "I want you to find General Longorio and ask him to come here."

"But, senora!" Jose was dumfounded, shocked. "He is a great general!"

"Give him this note." Quickly writing a few lines on a piece from her notebook, she gave him the scrap of paper which he carefully placed in his hat, then shaking his head doubtfully he left the train.

Flushed with triumph Dolores took the first occasion to enlarge upon her theme.

"You will see what a monster this Longorio is," she declared. "It was like him to steal your beautiful cat; he would steal a crucifix."

"I've heard that," Alaire said gravely. In the course of time the military train came moving along on the main track and stopped to the great interest of the south-bound travelers. It was made up of many stock cars crowded with cavalry horses, and penned in with them were the women and the children. The soldiers themselves were clustered thickly upon the cat-cars, far down at the rear of the train was a rickety passenger coach, and toward this Jose Sanchez made his way.

There began a noisy interchange of greetings between the occupants of the train, and meanwhile the hot sun glared balefully upon the huddled figures on the cat-cars. A half-hour passed then occurred a commotion at the forward end of Alaire's coach.

A group of officers climbed aboard and among them was one who could be none other than Luis Longorio. As he came down the passageway Alaire identified him without the aid of his insignia for he stood head and shoulders above his companions and bore himself with an air of authority. He was unusually tall, at least six feet three, and very slim, very lithe, a young man, his cheeks were gleefully smooth and of a clear pale, olive tint, his eyes were large, brilliant, his nostrils thin and sensitive, like those of a blooded horse. Disdain, hauteur, impatience, were stamped upon the general's countenance as he pushed briskly through the crowd turning his head from side to side in search of the woman who had summoned him.

Not until she rose did he discover Alaire, then he halted, his eyes fixed themselves upon her with a start of startled amazement.

Alaire felt herself color faintly for the man seemed to be scanning her from head to foot, taking in every detail of her face and form, and as he did so his expression remained unaltered. For what seemed a full minute Longorio stood rooted; then the stiff, violent cup was swept from his head; he bowed with the grace of a courtesan until Alaire saw the part in his oily black hair.

"Senora! A thousand apologies for my delay," he said. "Caramba! I did not dream—I did not understand your message." He continued to regard her with that same queer intensity.

"You are General Longorio?" Alaire was surprised to note that her voice quavered uncertainly, and annoyed to feel her face still flushing.

"Your obedient servant," Longorio, with a brusque command, turned away the occupants of the cat-cars, and, reversing the track, took a position facing Alaire. Another order, and the men who had accompanied him withdrew up the aisle. There was no mistaking his admiration. He seemed enchanted by her pale beauty, her rich red hair held him fascinated, and with Latin boldness he made his feelings crassly manifest.

"You probably know why I wished to see you," Alaire began. Longorio shook his head in vague denial.

"It is regarding my nephew La Feria," Alaire explained. "I am told that your army confiscated my cattle."

"Ah, yes! Now I understand." The Mexican nodded mechanically, but it was plain that he was not heeding her words in the least. As if to shut out a vision or to escape some dazzling sight, he closed his eyes. Alaire wondered if the fellow had been drinking. She turned to Dolores to find that good woman wearing an expression of stupefaction. It was very queer; it made Alaire extremely ill at ease.

Longorio opened his eyes and passed a brown hand across his brow as if to brush away perverse fancies that interfered with his thoughts. Alaire noticed that one of his fingers was decorated with a magnificent diamond and ruby ring, and this interested her greatly. No ordinary man could so lightly have worn such an ornament. It seemed not at all out of keeping.

"Eyes!" Longorio continued. "Your nephew has been destroyed, your cattle stolen. We will shoot the perpetrators of this outrage at once, senora!"

"No no!" I don't want to see anyone punished. I merely want your government to pay me for my cattle," Alaire laughed nervously.

"Ah! But a lady of refinement should never discuss such a miserable business. It is a matter for men."

She endeavored to speak in a brisk businesslike tone. "La Feria belongs to me. I am a woman of affairs, General Longorio, and you must talk to me as you would talk to a man. When I heard about this raid I came to look into it—to see you or whoever is in charge of this district, and to make a claim for damages."

"Vulgar! Disgrace! This is amazing!" There is nothing extraordinary about it that I can see. "You consider such a woman as yourself ordinary?" The men of my country enshrine beauty and worship it. They do not discuss such things with their women. Now this world! It is something for your husband—"

"Mr. Austin's business occupies his time this is my own concern. I am not the only practical woman in Texas."

Longorio appeared to be laboriously digesting this statement. "So," he said at last. "When you heard of this—you came, eh? You came alone into Mexico where we are fighting and killing each other? Well! That is spirit! You are wonderful, superb! He smiled showing the whitest and evenest teeth.

LUMBAGO GOES HE FEELS O. K.

Master Medicine to the Rescue
When Condition Was Worst.

"I was a fine example of every picture tells a story says John N. Jones of 1220 Camden street Harrisburg. 'I was that crippled up with lumbago that I couldn't straighten myself up and I felt so worn out that I thought my days of usefulness were about done.'

"I suffered agonies. Why I couldn't even bend over to tie my shoes without feeling as if a streak of fire was running up and down my back, and when I did get down I couldn't get straightened up again."

"I tried a lot of different kinds of medicine without any results so far as I could see and I had a picture of myself out of work and not able to lift a hand to earn my living."

Then one day I read about Tanlac in my paper and I came right down and got a bottle for said I. It did me so much for other people it looks as if it would help me. Did it? Almost before you could say how-de-do I was feeling better and from that time on my improvement has been steady until now I am back on my job again and feeling five years younger."

"Now I feel absolutely O. K. and am back on my old job again and I can truthfully say that Tanlac put me there."

Tanlac is now sold here by the Connelleville Drug Company. Tanlac can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Casen's Drug store—Adv.

business. It is a matter for men. She endeavored to speak in a brisk businesslike tone. "La Feria belongs to me. Such extravagant homage was embarrassing yet no woman could be wholly displeased by admiration so spontaneous and intense as that which Longorio manifested in every look and word. Alaire knew the susceptibility of Mexican men and was immune to ordinary flattery, yet there was something compelling about this martial hero's complete captivation. To have charmed him to the point of his utterment was a unique triumph and under his keen eyes she felt an adventurous thrill.

While he and Alaire were talking the passengers had returned to their seats, they were shouting good-bye to the soldiers opposite, the conductor approached and informed the general of his train orders.

Longorio favored him with a slow stare. "You may go when I leave," said he.

"Si, senor. But—" The general uttered a sharp exclamation of anger, at which the conductor backed away, expressing by voice and gesture his most hearty approval of the chance of plan.

"We must hold the train," Alaire said quickly. "It will arrange to see you in Nuevo Pueblo when I return."

Longorio smiled brilliantly and lifted a brown hand. "No, no! I am a selfish man, I refuse to deprive myself of this pleasure. Now about these cattle. He thought for a moment and his tone altered as he said. "Senora there seems to be an unhappy complication in our way, and this we must remove. First may I ask, are you a friend to our cause?"

"I am an American but what has that to do with my ranch and my cattle? This is something that concerns no one except you and me."

Longorio was plainly flattered by her words and took no trouble to hide his pleasure. "Ah! If that were only true! We would arrange everything to your satisfaction without another word." His admiring gaze seemed to envelop her and its warmth was unmistakable.

"Why did you take my cattle?" she demanded, stubbornly.

"It was coming to that. Your husband, senora, is an active Candelista."

For a moment Alaire was at a loss, then she replied with some spirit. "We are two people, he and I. La Feria belongs to me."

Nevertheless his conduct is regrettable," Longorio went on. "Probably evil men have led to him."

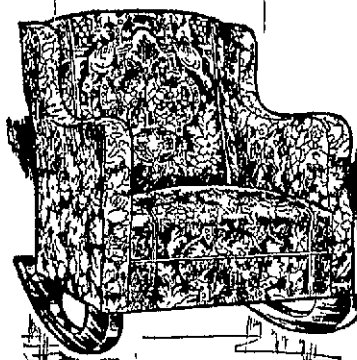

For the first time Dolores stirred. She had watched her countryman with a peculiar fascination. Now she said, as if freed from a spell.

"Pah! Nobody pays heed to Senor. We do not consider him."

SOISSON THEATRE.

"THE LAST SENTENCE"—A five reel Edison drama, featuring Miriam Nesbitt and Marie MacDonnell. It is an interesting drama. "Pearl of the Army No. 2," will also be shown. "That Dawgone Dog," a two reel L-Ko comedy with Sammie Burns in the lead, and a whole kennel full of canine actors. A valuable necklace plays a part in the picture and causes a typical chase. "Animated Weekly No. 5," and "The Diamond Thieves," an Irish drama, will also be shown. Tomorrow, "The Devil's Pay Day," a five reel Bluebird drama, featuring Franklin Parnum. One particularly charming scene of gaiety was photographed at Corcoran Beach, during the height of the season. Miss Baird has been chosen to play the leading feminine role because of her suitability to the part. Mr. Parnum is admirable as the pleasure-loving selfish young man, who wrecks his own life and that of two young women with whom it is most closely associated. There is a splendid lesson in the picture but it has not been allowed to interfere with its first purpose a good entertainment.

MARJORIE WILSON

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"ARMS AND THE WOMAN"—Mary Nash appears in the leading role of the Pathe Gold Rooster drama, "Arms and the Woman." Miss Nash makes an excellent screen actress. She can do the light and the comedy scenes wonderfully well while the places wherein she is called upon to register heavy emotions carry along convincingly. The story tells of Hecuba, a Hungarian girl who coming to America suffers fortune's vicissitudes until she meets and marries the owner of an immense steel works. With the war's outbreak she implores her husband to refuse ammunition orders from a foreign power but he ignores her pleas. Hecuba's brother, an anarchist, comes to America with orders to blow up the plant, and he succeeds, but only after Hecuba has made desperate efforts to stop him. Financially ruined he at last sees his wife's point and agrees that "it is better so." A Vitagraph comedy entitled "Big Bolts and Bolted Bolts," will also be shown. Tomorrow George Walsh will be featured in the William Fox drama, "The Island of Desire." It is the story of a Honolulu newspaper man, a native and a crafty Chinese who form an expedition to get untold riches from a mysterious pearl lagoon off the South Sea Islands. When they arrive they find that the pearls are real enough, but a girl, long before shipwrecked on the island, stands in their way. See the finish of this interesting drama.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE SLAVE MARKET"—Starring beautiful Pauline Frederick, the star of the Famous Players-Paramount, is a featured attraction today. In this dramatic story Miss Frederick is a Spanish beauty who falls into the hands of pirates and is finally offered for sale on the slave block. Director Hugh Ford took his company to Cuba in order to obtain the best possible Spanish atmosphere. As some of the scenes transpire in the West Indies, the sending of the play to Cuba was an especially happy thought. Some of the most thrillingly interesting incidents in the story transpire on shipboard when the pirates attack the vessel in which Ruyonba has sailed from Spain to the West Indies. There are hand-to-hand encounters on the vessel as the pirates come swarming over the side after the ancient custom of all pirates since the maritime pillaging became an institution. The light on the deck of Ruyonba's ship involves a new character in the Famous Players' annals in Thomas Meighan, whose remarkably clever acting in tasking productions has made him one of the screen's most prominent figures. "The Slave Market" was written by Frederick Arnold Kummer and is something entirely different from any photoplay in which Miss Frederick has ever played before, and the role of the proud Spanish beauty she is thoroughly delightful. Tomorrow.
